DOCTOR WILEY IS TO REMAIN

Father of Pure Food Law Upheld by President.

SOME CHANGES IN PROSPECT

It is Intimated that Taft Will Do a Little Housecleaning in Agricultural Department When He Returns.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 16.—President Taft is going to do some "house cleaning" in the department of agriculture, and he will not ask for the resignation of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley as a step in the renovation. These are two facts—the promise of a shakeup to end the strife that blocked efficient enforcement of the pure food law and the full exoneration of the "father" of that statute—were made known when the president gave out his decision in the "Wiley case."

Mr. Taft declares his purpose to overrule the recommendation of the personnel board of the department and Attorney General Wickesham that Dr. Wiley be dismissed and concludes with this significant reference to the house inquiry into the charges against the chief of the chemistry bureau:

"The broader issues raised by the investigation, which have a much weightier relation than this one to the general efficiency of the department, may require much more radical action than the question I have considered and decided."

This is regarded as a forecast of summary measures when the president returns to Washington in November.

In his opinion making it known that the "condign punishment" for Dr. Wiley, which Mr. Wickesham held to be necessary, will not be meted out, the president voices no word of criticism for the chemist, but many a word of praise.

There is no indication in it that Mr. Taft feels that he "turned down" the attorney general by not accepting his recommendations. He explains that Mr. Wickesham's findings in the case were made with less complete data than were before him when he took it up.

The "Wiley case" arose over the employment by the bureau of chemistry of Dr. H. H. Rusby of New York, pharmacognosist of the bureau. In effect, Dr. Wiley, Dr. L. F. Kehler, chief of the drug laboratory, and Dr. W. D. Bigelow, assistant chief of the bureau, were charged with having conspired to pay Dr. Rusby a salary of $1,600 a year, with the tacit understanding that he was to do only enough work to secure this amount at the rate of $20 a day. This was held to violate the act of congress of March 4, 1907, which declared that no classified scientific investigator should receive more than $20 a day.

In addition to the recommendation that Dr. Wiley be allowed to resign, the personnel board held that Dr. Rusby should be dismissed, that Dr. Kehler be reduced and that Dr. Bigelow be allowed to quit the service. None of these recommendations is upheld in the president's opinion.

Dr. Bennett has been in this country on a year's furlough and upon his return will be married to Dr. Iverson, who will go as far as Bombay to meet him. Dr. Bennett sailed from New York August 21.

SLUMP IN PEACH PRICES

Buyers Claim Contracts Have Filled
Their Warehouses.

Grant, Mich., Sept. 16.—Worried by the care of twice the amount of peaches looked for early in the season local growers who failed to take advantage of the opportunity of contracting are having the time of their lives to dispose of their stock at a satisfactory price. It is known that fruit has sold on the market at Grand Rapids for more than twice as much as was offered by the local buyers, and yet the buyers are having much difficulty in keeping their warehouses in a condition that will permit the taking in of more stock.

While it is felt that this fruit, especially the grade being brought in at present, should bring more money to the local grower, the buyers claim that they are doing all the business that the condition of their warehouses will permit.

PAYS FOR SHOOTING CHUM Saginaw Lad Earns $25 to Settle Doc- tor's Bill.

Saginaw, Mich., Sept. 16.—William Grams, fifteen years old, has paid a fine of $25 imposed on him by Probate Judge Riley L. Crane for shooting Albert McKenzie early last spring. The case was heard in the juvenile court at that time and the judge sentenced Grams to earn $25 during school vacation and pay it to his chum for the doctor's bill. Grams, McKenzie and the former's brother had been hunting sparrows. He wanted the two boys to return home a certain street, but they refused. When a short distance away Grams fired at McKenzie, the bullet wounding the latter in the chest. McKenzie recovered without serious results.

GRADES AND KINDERGARTENS OPEN MONDAY

The first eight grades of the Normal Training school and the kindergartens in the Normal, Woodruff and Prospect schools will open for work Monday, Sept. 18. This date is about two weeks later than the opening last year but after consideration on the part of those in control it was decided that the amount of work accomplished the first two weeks in September when the weather was so very warm did not warrant its being opened so early. The high school department, however, will not open till a week later, Tuesday, Sept. 26.

A number of changes have been made in the personnel of the training school faculty. Miss Bess Beach will take Miss Vivian Gilpin's place as assistant in music and Miss Gilpin will devote all of her time to teaching in the Conservatory. Miss Inez Rutherford who was a degree student at the Normal last June will take Mrs. Janet Howell's place. Miss Rutherford will have charge of the domestic art work. Mrs. Howell has accepted a position as head of one of the departments in a girls' school in Minnesota. The work in domestic science will be under the direction of Miss Edith Blackman of New York City. This work has been under the direction of Miss Sarah Arnott who resigned at the end of the summer school to go to Chicago. Miss Helene Kneip who was given a year's leave of absence last year and studied at Columbia College, has returned and will resume her work as critic teacher in the kindergarten department. Miss Minetta Samis who had Miss Kneip's work during her absence at Columbia will have charge of the kindergarten at the Prospect school. The children from a part of the fifth and sixth grades that made up a separate room under the direction of Miss Olive Davis will be put back in the regular grades again.

The Normal College proper will open Monday, Sept. 26, in all of its departments.

JUST ESCAPES DEATH

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in Imminent Danger.

Bundle of Steel Falls from Roof of Father's House, Fatally Injuring One Workman.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Sept. 16.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., escaped death by a very few inches, one man will die and four others were terribly injured in an accident which occurred on Mr. Rockefeller's father's house at 4:30 in the afternoon.

A heavy bundle of steel was being hoisted to the roof when the tie-ropes broke, the steel struck the cornice and slipped through the chain around it. Young Rockefeller saw the danger, yelled to the laborers to jump for their lives and made a quick jump himself. He escaped but the Italian laborers were mown down.

Young Rockefeller was visibly affected, but he hastened to give first aid to the men while he dispatched others to get doctors and nurses to the Rockefellers estate with all possible speed. The garage in the stable was turned into a temporary hospital and it is there that three doctors and five nurses worked to save the lives of the injured men, with Mr. Rockefeller, Jr., superintending everything.

THE ADVERTISING VALUE OF WHOLESALE ENVIRONMENT.

Just now when the colleges and universities have sent out to the advertising mediums selected their carefully prepared "copy" to persuade indulgent and self-sacrificing parents to send their sons and daughters to those educational institutions advertised, there comes from the east this disquieting testimony from the west:

"Richard T. Crane, the wealthy Chicago manufacturer, says 90 per cent of the students at Harvard drink in their freshman year, 95 per cent in their senior year and 15 per cent of them 'go to the bad.' Mr. Crane gives this result of his investigation of student conditions in Boston to the public in a report published here."

"The report scores the municipality of Boston for permitting such conditions as prevail at Harvard to exist. The indictment is not alone directed against Harvard. Columbia is worse, Mr. Crane says, and Yale, Princeton and Cornell nearly as bad. Much of the dissipation, Mr. Crane says, is carried on in clubs right in the shadow of the colleges. These clubs, he asserts, are the breeding places of much wrong doing. Brawls in hotels are but a part of the education of youth."

"And this 'ad' will counteract to a considerable extent the drawing power of the other. The neglected 'ad' is the daily bulwark of the institution with an atmosphere and an environment that will speak as eloquently and as profitably for the college as those which Mr. Crane cites speaks against it. And two elements of influence are responsible in the main for the atmosphere and the environment which prevails. The college authorities in the policy pursued and the character of student life and activity which it permits and encourages—and the policy pursued by the municipality in which the college is located. Boston is justly criticized for the environment surrounding Harvard. And Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor are just as justly open to criticism for the atmosphere they are creating and sustaining about our State institutions. And to the extent to which they can create and sustain a more wholesome atmosphere about the educational institutions in their midst and do not are they countering the advertising efforts of the institutions which are the mainstay of these favored cities. And a clean environment is an asset of the school which it gladly proclaims to the world, when the municipality makes it possible to do so."

The suggestion of the chief of police in answer to the criticism of citizens that he is not to be found when an officer of the law is needed, is that the citizens furnish the police officers or at least the chief with a motorcycle—we presume in order that the meting out of justice may be the speedier. This suggestion is not lacking in consistency and only in one or two details to make it complete.

There is said to be an up-to-date electric auto horn (equally adaptable to motorcycles) which screeches out so, it may be readily heard half a mile away, the words "get out of the way." With this attachment constantly connected up while the machine is in motion it would seem that there would be left little to desire in rounding out the program of law enforcement as the present administration mapped it out by adopting the maps of its predecessors in office. And it would seem that the lawbreakers might be glad to furnish the motorcycles—possibly the cost might be supplied out of the proceeds of the unlawful Sunday baseball and other games. It would enable all criminals to be in proper form and their alibis and other evidence of innocence in readiness upon the arrival of justice and the weary citizen could retire with the assurance that he too could hear in his waking moments the joy rides of justice—whenver they were taken.

Somebody seems to have accidentally discovered a good use for a brewery. It is as a sort of sanitarium for hay fever patients. This in combination with the artificial ice business ought to lend encouragement to the brewing interests. The only danger seems to lie in the temptation to persuade yourself that you have hay fever in order that you may sit around in cold storage during the hay fever term.

But, if this story is really true, then the fellow that's regularly afflicted with hay fever might construct a cold storage room, either at home or at his place of business, by surrounding it with sufficient ice for the season's use and transfer his office from its usual place to this cold storage room during the hay fever season. He could thus stay at home and attend to his own business, besides having a supply of ice handy at all times. It is hoped that this story may consist of facts, rather than hot air.

ATWOOD, THE STAR AVIATOR.

How He Suddenly Soared Into Aerial Fame.

FLYING ONLY FOUR MONTHS.

First Came Into Public Notice When He Flew From Boston to New London, Conn.—Later Made Trip to New York and Washington.

Harry N. Atwood, the Boston aviator who made an air journey from Missouri to the Atlantic coast, is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He first came into the aerial limelight on June 30 last, when he electrified spectators of the Harvard-Yale crew race on the Thames river, New London, by a series of daring evolutions performed in the air way above the river.

On that day Atwood flew from Squantum, Mass., to New London and home, a distance of 108 miles, in just two hours. The young bird man had then been flying only eight weeks.

Then followed Atwood's thrilling air voyage from New London to Governors Island, a distance of 145 miles, which he covered in two hours and forty-seven minutes of actual flight at an average of fifty-two miles an hour.

On Monday, July 3, Atwood decided to try for the regular pilot's license issued by the Aero Club of America. After taking Captain R. S. Madden of the army for a trip over the bay and circling Miss Liberty with Lieutenant John S. Fleck as a passenger Atwood began his trial for the license. He made one successful flight, cutting the figures eight required in the Aero club rules and performing other evolutions successfully.

On his second flight, however, his motor stopped at a height of 2,000 feet from the ground.

The young air man volplaned easily to earth, but landed too far away from his starting point to satisfy the rules.

Flight to Atlantic City.

That day Atwood had a talk with Granville M. Hunt, representative of the chamber of commerce, Washington, after which the aviator decided to attempt a flight to Washington on July 4. Accordingly, at 8:30 o'clock on the next morning, Atwood left Governors Island to fly to the capital. He was forced to make three stops on account of the strong wind, the first at Asbury Park, the second at Tucker-ton, where he restocked his fuel tank, and the third at Venice Park, Atlantic City. He proceeded to the Atlantic City beach, landing at 2:30 p. m.

It was on July 7 at Atlantic City that Atwood's machine suffered its first serious mishap. At 3:10 p. m. Atwood started his engine going on the beach. In the passenger seat was Charles K. Hamilton, a fellow aviator, who planned to accompany Atwood. The blades of the propeller had scarcely begun to turn when a large bulldog rushed toward the machine, barking. There was a mixup in which the dog, struck by the whirling blades, was killed and tossed into the crowd. The blade which had done the tossing, however, was found to be cracked. This defect Atwood tried to remedy by winding wire about the fracture, but later when he flew seaward the split blade caused the machine to become unmanageable, and Atwood and Hamilton were tumbled into the surf, being rescued with more or less difficulty.

On July 9 he again essayed a flight toward Washington, this time in Hamilton's biplane. Hamilton again accompanied him. They had risen to a height of seventy feet above the aviation field when something went wrong and the machine crashed to the ground. The two bird men, however, escaped unharmed.

Atwood and Hamilton were tumbled into the surf, being rescued with more or less difficulty.

On July 11 Atwood reached College Park, near Washington, at 5:50 a. m. in Hamilton's biplane. Here he borrowed a machine from army aviators to complete the trip to Washington.

He had no more than left the aviation field, however, than the aeroplane dropped a distance of 100 feet to the ground. Atwood got off without injury, but the machine was badly smashed.

Two days later in a biplane purchased from Hamilton the young Bostonian circled over the White House grounds for nearly an hour.

He then described a few spirals about the Washington monument and returned to College Park.

July 14 was a red letter day for the bird man from the Hub. On that day he soared over the tall elms on the White House lawn and landed almost at President Taft's feet. The chief executive then presented him with a gold medal on behalf of the Aero Club of America and congratulated him on his success.

HOW TO OBTAIN BEST RESULTS IN THE FEEDING OF YOUNG STOCK.

By W. H. NORTON, JR., of the M. A. C.

Breeding Stock Should Be Vigorous and Growthy, Not Fat.

The calf may be allowed to suck its dam a few times for the first day or so, but should then be put in a separate pen. If the calf is strong, and the cow's udder is in good condition it is best to separate them the first or second day. If the calf is weak, it is better to leave it with the cow, as it will feed often and grow stronger, or if the cow's udder is inflamed, the calf will help to bring it back to its proper condition. In any case the calf should be given the first milk, or colostrum, as it has a stimulating and corrective effect upon the system. For the first few days it is best to feed the calf three times a day, though it is not absolutely necessary.

When it is two or three weeks old the calf can be taught to eat little grain by throwing a handful in the pail after it has finished drinking the milk. The grain should not be put in the milk, as the calf will swallow it with the milk without much masturbation, and it will not be properly digested. The calf will soon learn to look for the grain, and at five or six weeks of age should be eating a pound or so a day. A good grain mixture for feeding in this way may be made of three parts of corn meal, three parts ground oats, one part bran and one part oil cake, by weight, and the amount fed should be increased gradually.

When it is four weeks old the calf should be given the first milk, or colostrum, as it has a stimulating and corrective effect upon the system. For the first few days it is best to feed the calf three times a day, though it is not absolutely necessary.

When it is five weeks old the calf should be given the first milk, or colostrum, as it has a stimulating and corrective effect upon the system. For the first few days it is best to feed the calf three times a day, though it is not absolutely necessary.

When it is six weeks old the calf should be given the first milk, or colostrum, as it has a stimulating and corrective effect upon the system. For the first few days it is best to feed the calf three times a day, though it is not absolutely necessary.

When it is seven weeks old the calf should be given the first milk, or colostrum, as it has a stimulating and corrective effect upon the system. For the first few days it is best to feed the calf three times a day, though it is not absolutely necessary.

When it is eight weeks old the calf should be given the first milk, or colostrum, as it has a stimulating and corrective effect upon the system. For the first few days it is best to feed

Seven Months of Artificial Light In the Home

Sight is one of the most precious possessions of men, women and CHILDREN.

During seven months of the year, most of the close application of eyesight in your home is by artificial light.

Is the artificial light in your home good or bad?

Before the long evenings come when the family gathers near the LIGHT—look into this matter carefully.

ELECTRIC LIGHT is the best light in the home. It is economical and it is far more convenient than any other form of lighting.

Insurance companies rank electric light the safest.

Kidney Troubles Attack Ypsilanti Men and Women, Old and Young.

Kidney ills seize young and old. Come quickly with little warning. Children suffer in their early years. Can't control the kidney secretions. Girls are languid, nervous, suffer pain.

Women worry, can't do daily work. Men have lame and aching backs. The cure for man, woman or child. Is to cure the cause—the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills reach the cause. Ypsilanti testimony proves it.

Mrs. Charles Wilkinson, 513 S. Huron St., Ypsilanti, Mich., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Weinmann-Matthews' Co.'s drug store, brought good results in my son's case. About three years ago he had an attack of typhoid fever and after that he complained of backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble. When stooping or lifting, his back bothered him more than ever and often there was sediment in the kidney secretions, plainly proving that his kidneys were disordered. The contents of two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills removed every symptom of this trouble and in return for this great improvement I take pleasure in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SCOUTS WILL LEAVE MONDAY--LAST DRILL HELD TODAY

The Boy Scouts will leave Ypsilanti Monday at 11:59 on the Michigan Central, returning at six o'clock. All Scouts are requested to confer with the teachers concerning the time and place for dinner. All patrol leaders and corporals should have the regulation stripes on their sleeves and carry their flags and staves. Each boy should know his patrol number and each paper carrier should arrange to have a substitute to attend to his paper route. All uniformed scouts are cordially invited to go and be prepared to bring credit to the city and the Boy Scout movement.

The above final directions were sent today to the Ypsilanti Boy Scouts from Prof. Sherzer who is at the head of the Boy Scouts in this city.

The Scouts held their final drill in the business section of the city this afternoon. There were 53 boys in the line of march. They were put through their final orders by Scout master George Willard, Jr., and Scout master Gordon. Each scout was equipped with his staff and each patrol leader bore the pennant and insignia of his patrol. About one hour was devoted to drill in obeying commands and in being put through the various field movements.

The drill this afternoon was particularly to accustom the boys to appearing before a crowd. The boys have worked hard to acquit themselves creditably on Monday and doubtless they will do honor to themselves and the city they represent.

BYRON MAN GETS JUDGMENT AGAINST CHURCH FOR COLLECTING

Byron, Mich., Sept. 16.—John E. Van Alstine, cashier of the bank of Byron, was awarded a judgment of $75 against the Durand M. E. church in justice court here. The church had some trouble in collecting pledges for a new edifice erected several years ago. After warning those who had not fulfilled their pledges that they would be used, the church began its first action against Van Alstine. Van Alstine paid the $70 due from him and then started retaliatory action against the church for services rendered in collecting pledges while he was in Durand and an official of the church. Yesterday's judgment resulted. It is said the church will appeal the case.

RAINS INJURE GRAPE CROP

Knock Fruit from Vines and Prices May Go Up.

Lawton, Mich., Sept. 16.—People who are waiting until the price is lower to eat grapes may go hungry if present conditions continue in the big Michigan grape belt.

Many have waited for a higher price, and while doing so weather conditions have been bad for grapes, the continued rains causing thousands of dollars' worth to fall on the ground.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 16.—Had it not been for the returning from a late call of Dr. A. W. Weed, the postoffice and bank at Brown City would have been robbed by three men whom the physician had noticed trying to enter.
